It Takes More Than A Village To Create a Great Retail Environment!

Enjole, Evansville, Indiana Sets The Tone For A New Order

Walking down the main street of Evansville, Indiana you can not help but notice the classic American architecture from the 1800's & 1900's. There is a movement to save these architectural gems & Enjole is at the forefront of this movement. Sharon Lemond purchased the 1860 building & with the help of Tammy

Stallings created an amazing retail environment. "During my 40 some years in the furniture industry, I have never seen a more well tuned group of professionals with great design sense & an enthusiasm for helping clients create beautiful homes." says Joe Ruggiero. "Visiting Enjole for a Design Event, I could see that each & every staff member had a particular task to perform in order to make this two day event come together. So proud to have my Miles Talbott & Sunbrella collections part of this store." A keen sense of the social media, Enjole is well represented on the internet & produced a live streaming of the "kick off" event from start to finish.

A training & luncheon for designers was held in another historic building.
